

Progress on male breast cancer outcomes lags, experts say

Survival among male patients with breast cancer has not improved at the same rate as among female patients, who are seeing more rapid gains in prognosis, according to new research. Experts said lower awareness is one problem, with men less inclined to seek care after noticing a lump. The findings were scheduled for discussion at the San Antonio Breast Cancer Symposium. HealthDay News (12/9)