

Tool models Hispanic women's breast cancer risk

Researchers at Kaiser Permanente developed a model to predict breast cancer risk in Hispanic women based on age, race, family medical history, age at menarche, childbearing history and other risk factors. The model is not appropriate for women who have invasive breast cancer or an inherited mutation linked to higher breast cancer risk, or who have undergone radiotherapy of the chest.

United Press International (12/20)